By common consent the next boat for County Judge will be placed in command, and the next boat for County Clerk will be first clerk, and other positions distributed according to vote, the defeated Magistrates and Constables falling in as deck hands and rowing boats.

ARRESTED FOR STRALING.—A young Tennesseean by the name of Gray, hailing from near Stone's ferry, Union county, Tenn., was arrested Wednesday night, in Hickman, just as he was about to board the City of Helena, on the charge of stealing $210 in gold from a Mr. Long, also a farmer in the neighborhood of Stone's ferry. The young man when arrested by Mr. Long of stealing his money proposed to give it up if they would let him go; and he did afterwards give up the $240 in gold pieces, but was committed to jail instead of being set free. Thursday morning young Gray agreed to accompany his captors back to Tennessee not troubling them to secure a requisition on his farm, and enjoyed his full confinement. He (Long) kept his money in a bureau drawer to which Gray had free access. Monday last the money and Gray both turned up missing, and Gray was easily tracked to Hickman, where he was arrested and the money found on his person. The young man is most likely good for a term in the penitentiary.

The Record Issue.

To the Voters of Fulton county: Finding that the numerous certificates published in last week's Edition in Judge Bailey's card, has confused rather than enlightened the public mind, I therefore, respectfully, call your attention to the following certificate:

STATE OF KENTUCKY, County of Fulton, }
I, T. M. FRANKS, hereby certify that, after an examination of the records of the County Clerk's office at the close of his term of office, J. H. Montgomery left assets on hand sufficient to pay all liabilities of the county, and still leave a balance of $862.25 that should have been in the sheriff's hands. This amount was reduced to $186.21 at the March term, 1879, of the Fulton County Court, by the allowance of sundry claims received after H. C. Bailey's term of office began, amounting to $676.04, of which $204.75 was county clerk's salary up to that date. It is also noted that at the last settlement of the county, amounting to $102.00.

You can now see plainly that, though the county was in debt $1,052.41 in December 1877, as shown by one of Judge Bailey's certificates, yet at the close of his term, Sept. 3, 1878, he got the county out of debt, and left a balance of $862.25. Judge Bailey takes the office with this amount on hand, and in three years he has run the county into debt $101.00; and again you will see that this sum was reduced to $186.21, on the 10th day of March, 1880, by the payment of $824.79 of expenses incurred after I went out of office, and during Judge Bailey's term, of which $204.75 was his own salary from Sept. 1, 1878, to March 1, 1879, and a generous public if it is fair and honest after he has left the office, will not withhold its praise from me.

Respectfully, J. H. MONTGOMERY.

To the Voters of Fulton County.—In the card that will appear in the Current issue of this week, Judge Montgomery does not endeavor to maintain the statement heretofore made by him that there was over Two Thousand Dollars in his hands when he went out of office.

But he makes an effort to bolster that by relying upon the certificate of the Clerk, in which it is stated that at that time there should have been in the hands of the Sheriff when I came into office $83.25, but it is now shown or stated that there was that sum or any other amount at that time in the hands of the Sheriff.

Now, the simple truth is this, and the records will show it, there was no settlement made with the Sheriff in 1878, the year I went into office, because of the prevalence of the yellow fever, and the Sheriff was allowed by the Magistrate in March, 1879, to make his settlement. So the Clerk is mistaken when he intimates that there was any record, or other proof to show that there was a larger surplus in the Sheriff's hands when he went out of office, and I went into office. If the Judge will turn to the last settlement made with the Sheriff during his term, December 10th, 1877, he will find that the county was then in debt $1,052.41, the next settlement, and first after I came into office, March 1, 1879, the county was out of debt and had paid all its liabilities, and there was a surplus of $186.21.

The Judge endeavors to show that there was money on hand, and that the money left with the Sheriff was partly paid out in advance to myself and other officers, for salaries in advance. But I positively state that the Magistrate never allowed me, or any other officer any amount in advance of what was due, and if they had I would not have been responsible, as they are the ones that pass on all claims against the county. They did allow me, and after all had been paid to date, I left a surplus as stated of $186.21. For the truth of the above, I invite all interested to the records, and now I say to all my friends, rally to the polls on the 7th day of August next, and then to no lying report of victory is ours.

July 26, 1882. H. C. BAILEY.

County Board of Health, Louisville, Ky., July 20th, 1882.

To A. A. Paris: I regret any sort of mistake or misunderstanding—my book explains it—in copying names the clerk put your name down as Harris. I will erase and copy better. Reneging you as President of the Board for Fulton. I hereby resign the entire Board for two years.

A. A. Paris, H. A. Taylor, H. W. Green, Charlie Miles, Newton Paschal. It is necessary to make out fresh commissions. I hope the old Board will continue. I am obliged for your letter.

Improvements.—Hertweck, Baltzer & Co.'s new factory building is about completed, and the new machinery arriving. The working men are busily engaged putting up the shafting, and the expectation is that steam will be connected and work in full factory commencing regularly about the 10th of August.

Our Friends, Powell & Bro., are all pushing to improve and perfect their already splendid flour mill. Mr. W. B. Powell left for St. Louis Tuesday morning to buy several additional machines. This firm is laboring to build up the finest flouring mill ever erected in this section, and we trust they may receive the encouragement of our farmers and business men.

Mr. Jas. R. Brown has completed a new store house on Water street, and purposes arranging a public hall in the up, eaire. Mr. Brown will build a larger store house on the corner of the same street, and will then construct a regular public hall, providing it with seats, stage, &c.

Several new dwelling houses are in progress, and some have been greatly delayed for want of sand to complete the plastering.

The Hickman L. & M. Company are arranging to build a large brick drying house, which will be a considerable improvement, and afford employment to quite a number.

Capt. Stone at Cincinnati.—Hon. W. J. Stone is announced as a candidate for Congress in the first district. He was speaker of the House of Representatives three terms ago, and is well known throughout the State as a prominent farmer and politician. His name was given in the State of Ohio, and was wounded here in the war.

On motion, it is hereby ordered that an election be held at the City Hall, in the city of Hickman, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1882, to elect a City Marshal, and Judge of the City Court, and the following officers are appointed to hold the same: J. Kirkpatrick and R. N. McNeely, Judges; G. M. Wilburn, Sheriff; and R. E. Miller, Clerk.

On motion, the City Clerk is hereby directed to make a deed to the L. O. O. F. for the south half of City Cemetery lot No. 68.

On motion Council adjourned.

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

The Daughter of a Wealthy Baltimore Liquor-Dealer Wedded to a Police Officer.

Baltimore, Md., July 18.—The following announcement appeared in a morning paper this morning:

WATKINS—FOWNER.—On the 17th inst. by the Rev. Samuel Shannon, Millard F. Watkins and Mary Catharine Fowner, both of Baltimore City, Md.

There is quite an interesting story connected with this announcement, which is furnishing food for gossip among the fashionable residents of Northwest Baltimore, and which proves conclusively that the lot of a policeman, although hard at times, can be happy as that of any other man. The happy benefits in the present instance is a well-known and popular officer of the North-western district, whose reputation of a workman and close attention to duty is second to that of no other officer in the force. About one year ago he was appointed to the position he now occupies, and was detailed to work a beat on Pennsylvania avenue. Within a few days of the point at which he had reached and where he generally met the elegant Miss Katie Fowner, the daughter of a wealthy liquor dealer, Miss Katie, as she was known, although very young in years, had already several admirers, and not a few would have gladly taken her for better or worse. Officer Watkins noticed the house every evening with his road to go in duty, and, becoming attracted by the fresh and youthful countenance, obtained an introduction to the young lady, and the acquaintance was made. From the first Miss Katie seemed to like the officer's company, and it was long before mutual sympathies were expressed. The young lady, which has since ripened into deep and ardent love. All the time, however, the parents of the young lady, who had been progressing smoothly enough, the parents of the young lady objected to the visits of the officer, and their course of true love was destined not to run as smoothly as they would have liked. The people had no objection to waiting for a reasonable time, but when it became known that the parents were making arrangements to go West and take her with them, finding it impossible to elude their purpose in this way, they determined on a coup d'etat, which was well planned and successfully carried out last Sunday evening. Taking advantage of a time when her guardians were otherwise engaged, the young lady gathered together some of her friends, and with a compact bundle, with the intention of taking it with her, but fearing that suspicion might be aroused, she abandoned this idea and quietly left her parental residence without a word to her loved one, and her absence was not immediately discovered.

At the next corner she was joined by her lover and his best man, Officer Harvill, and the trio made all haste to the parsonage of the Rev. M. E. Church, where they were married. The young lady, who had been waiting for a reasonable time, was now in a hurry to get away, and the parents, who had been waiting for a reasonable time, were now in a hurry to get away.

WHEAT.—As prophesied in the Corn-law and under the present law, the wheat crop is now in full bloom in the North, and grain is turning out ever better than was first expected. Wheat which brought $1.74 the first week in July in St. Louis, is now dull at 95 to 96 per bushel. We look for still lower prices, although it may be a slight reaction, and are expected by speculators. The receipts continue large.
